

I use this code to get only the file that have.txt extension: File[] fileList = fileDialog.getSelectedFiles(); for (File file : fileList) { if (file.getName().toString().substring(0, "txt".length()).equals("txt")) { System.out.println(file); } } Is there a way to list all the files in my computer with their extension and save the information to a CSV file with a structure that I will need? A: 1.) Read all files class GetFilesFromFolders { / * @param directory directory that will contain files that will be returned */ public List getFilesFromFolders(String directory) throws IOException { List folderNames = new ArrayList(); File[] files = new File(directory).listFiles(); for (File file : files) { String fileName = file.getName(); String extension = fileName.substring(fileName.lastIndexOf('.') + 1).toLowerCase(); if (extension.equals("txt")) { folderNames.add(fileName); } } Collections.sort(folderNames); return folderNames; } } 2.) Create out put CSV class CreateCsvFile { / * @param folderNames folder names that were read from the folder, that we want to save in CSV file */ public void writeCsv(List folderNames) throws IOException { String[] array = folderNames.toArray(new String[folderNames.size()]);
